

Buntús Cainte Chapter 12 Review

Draw lines to match Irish/English vocabulary.

ar	a jug
an bord	the milk
ar an mbord	on the plate
an t-arán	the table
an t-im	the butter
an t-uisce	certainly
an bainne	the bread
an tae	I don't know
an siúcra	the water
gach	everything
gach rud	the tea
cruiscín	the sugar
sa gcrúiscín	on the table
níl a fhios agam	in the jug cinnte	every pláta	on
ar an bpláta	a plate

Can You Translate?

Máire: An bhfuil gach rud ar an mbord anois, a mhamaí?

Nóra: Níl a fhios agam. An bhfuil bainne sa gcrúiscín?

Máire: Tá, agus tá arán ar an bpláta.

Nóra: An bhfuil an t-im ann?

Máire: Tá, cinnte, tá sé ar an bpláta.

Nóra: Tá tú go han-mhaith. Is ea, tá gach rud ar an mbord anois.

The bread is on the table.

The water is on the table.

The tea is on the table.

The butter is on the table.

The milk is on the table.

The sugar is on the table.

Is the milk on the table yet?

There's no bread on the table now.

They're on the table, look.

That dirty thing is on the box.

There's no one on the bus.

Who is on the stairs now?

Can You Translate?

Máire: Is everything on the table now, mammy?

Nóra: I don't know. Is there milk in the jug?

Máire: Yes, and there's bread on the plate.

Nóra: Is the butter there?

Máire: Yes, certainly, it's on the plate.

Nóra: You are very good. Yes, everything is on the table now.